Customized Translation Technology Solution for SE63

SE63 is SAP's powerful online translation environment, which is used by SAP as well as its partners; however, SE63 is not an open environment. This means that it neither allows the translation team to share the translation memory (TM) when more than one linguist is involved, nor supports any popularly used CAT tool.

To tackle the challenge of translation inconsistency, EC Innovations developed a plug-in named Trados4SAP. It allows linguists who are working in SAP SE63 to use Trados Workbench to share translation memories in real time. Our tool suite also includes TMShare, our self-developed application that helps linguists outside of our Intranet share translation memories globally in real time, only if they have Internet access. By leveraging this tool, all linguists can now share their TMs in SE63, wherever they are located and whenever they work.

Customized Service

After 11 years of cooperation, EC Innovations has established a 30-person in-house team for SAP projects. All team members are able to work in SE63 skillfully and have a good mastery of SAP Terms and Style Guide. Additionally, they have basic knowledge of how the various SAP systems work, how they are used, and are equipped with a high-level of professional know-how and best practices. EC Innovations is well-positioned to cater to SAP's demand for localizing any expansion component and specified content as well as any applicable training material.

The 10th Anniversary of SAP-ECI Cooperation

In late 2016, EC Innovations held the "One Week" business forum to mark the 10th anniversary of its cooperation with SAP. During the 7-day forum, the members of both groups from SAP and EC Innovations discussed and explored a dozen topics from machine translation and CAT instruction, to ERP localization features, methods of terminology review, and process optimization. EC Innovations constantly implements technology-driven localization solutions and pursues workflow optimization and transparency in cooperation. This not only contributes to a mutual understanding on a business level, but also strengthens existing relationships.
